What is 3MT?

Three Minute Thesis (3MT[®]) is a research communication competition developed by The University of Queensland (UQ).

PhD students have three minutes to present a compelling oration on their thesis and its significance.

3MT challenges students to consolidate their ideas and research discoveries so they can be presented concisely to a non-specialist audience.

3MT Format - UQ

To take part in the UQ 3MT Competition each participating school, institute and faculty will hold a live in-person competition to select a winner.

The format of the UQ 3MT Competition at all levels is to be a live in-person event and all competitors are required to be judged on a live in-person performance.

No requirement for videos recordings to be submitted.

3MT Registration

3MT Competitor Registration 2023

All students wishing to compete in the 2023 3MT Competition are required to register their details via Student Hub.

Your 3MT Event Coordinator will contact you to confirm your participation and provide additional details about your schools/institute or faculty 3MT competition.

Eligibility

Eligibility

Active PhD and Professional Doctorate (Research) candidates who have successfully passed their confirmation milestone (including candidates whose thesis is under submission) by the date of their first presentation are eligible to participate in 3MT competitions at all levels, including the Asia-Pacific 3MT competition. Graduates are not eligible.

UQ Specific Eligibility

MPhil and pre-confirmation PhD and Professional Doctorate (Research) candidates who are active in program will still be eligible to participate in the UQ 3MT competition up to Faculty/Institute finals but cannot advance to the UQ 3MT Final.

Rules

- A single static PowerPoint slide is permitted (no slide transitions, animations or 'movement' of any description, the slide is to be presented from the beginning of the oration).
- No additional electronic media (e.g. sound and video files) are permitted.
- No additional props (e.g. costumes, musical instruments, laboratory equipment) are permitted.
- Presentations are limited to 3 minutes maximum and competitors exceeding 3 minutes are disqualified.
- Presentations are to be spoken word (e.g. no poems, raps or songs).
- Presentations are to commence from the stage.
- Presentations are considered to have commenced when a presenter starts their presentation through movement or speech.
- The decision of the adjudicating panel is final.

Judging Criteria

Comprehension and Content - Revised

- Presentation provided clear background and significance to the research question
- Presentation provided clear positionality of the presenter to the research and research approach*
- Presentation clearly described the research strategy/design and the results/findings of the research
- Presentation clearly described the conclusions, outcomes and impact of the research

Engagement and Communication

- The oration was delivered clearly, and the language was appropriate for a non-specialist audience
- The PowerPoint slide was well-defined and enhanced the presentation
- The presenter conveyed enthusiasm for their research and captured and maintained the audience's attention

*Positionality is the social and political context that creates your identity in terms of race, class, gender, sexuality, and ability status. Positionality also describes how your identity influences, and potentially biases, your understanding of and outlook on the world.

Why Participate?

During your PhD there is a strong focus on the production of your thesis. The ability to communicate the importance of your research project and articulate your findings is very valuable.

The Three Minute Thesis competition provides you with the opportunity to:

- Communicate your ideas effectively to the wider community;
- Describe your research findings to a non-specialist audience;
- Crystallise your thoughts about your thesis;
- Increase your profile within the UQ research community, staff and wider community; and
- Network with other HDR students.

Participation in the 3MT also counts as an eligible activity to gain points for the purpose of the Career Development Scholarship (CDS) – this is only for HDR candidates who commences prior to RQ1 2022

3MT Drafting

Write for your audience

- Avoid jargon and academic language.
- Explain concepts and people important to your research - you may know all about all the theories but your audience may not.
- Highlight the outcomes of your research, and the desired outcome.
- Imagine that you are explaining your research to a close friend or fellow student from another field.
- Convey your excitement and enthusiasm for your subject.

Tell a story

- You may like to present your 3MT as a narrative, with a beginning, middle and end.
- It's not easy to condense your research into three minutes, so you may find it easier to break your presentation down into smaller sections.
- Try writing an opener to catch the attention of the audience, then highlight your different points, and finally have a summary to restate the importance of your work.

Have a clear outcome in mind

- Know what you want your audience to take away from your presentation.
- Try to leave the audience with an understanding of what you're doing, why it is important, and what you hope to achieve.

Revise

- Proof your 3MT presentation by reading it aloud, to yourself and to an audience of friends and family.
- Ask for feedback.
- Ask your audience if your presentation clearly highlights what your research is about and why it is important.

PowerPoint Slide

- Less is more: text and complicated graphics can distract your audience – you don't want them to read your slide instead of listening to your 3MT.
- Personal touches: personal touches can allow your audience to understand the impact of your research.
- Creativity drives interest: do not rely on your slide to convey your message – it should simply complement your oration.
- Work your message: think about how your slide might be able to assist with the format and delivery of your presentation – is there a metaphor that helps explain your research?
- An engaging visual presentation can make or break any oration, so make sure your slide is legible, clear and concise.

3MT Presentation

Practice, practice, practice

- Feeling nervous before you present is natural, and a little nervousness can even be beneficial to your overall speech. Practice so you can present with confidence and clarity. Practicing will also help you gauge the timing of your 3MT so that you keep within the time limit.

Vocal range

- Speak clearly and use variety in your voice (fast/slow, loud/ soft).
- Do not rush – find your rhythm.
- Pause at key points as it gives the audience time to think about what you are saying.

Body language

- Stand straight and confidently.
- Hold your head up and make eye contact.
- Never turn your back to the audience.
- Practise how you use your hands and move around the stage. It is okay to move around, however it is also appropriate for a 3MT presentation to be delivered from a single spot on stage.
- Do not make the common mistakes of rolling back and forth on your heels, pacing for no reason or playing with your hair as these habits are distracting for the audience.

3MT Presentation

Record yourself

- Record/listen to your presentation to hear where you pause, speak too quickly or get it just right.
- Then work on your weaknesses and exploit your strengths.

Watch

- Watch other presentations from academics, politicians and journalists, and break down their strengths and weaknesses.
- Analyse how they engage with their audience.
- View presentations by previous 3MT finalists.

Dress

- There is no dress code, if you are unsure of how to dress, dress for a job interview.
- If you are presenting on a stage that has a wooden floor, be aware of the noise your footwear might make.
- Do not wear a costume of any kind as this is against the rules (as is the use of props).
